

Bodies in Association

Christians Committed Together

A wide range of organisations and networks draws Christians of all churches together around common causes, projects and interests. These are the 45 Bodies in Association with the Churches Together in England and Churches Together in Britain and Ireland, schools of ecumenical living and working.

They do not form part of the churches' official structures but, as voluntary associations of Christ's people or movements within the Church, their participation in the churches' ecumenism and mission before the world is recognised and valued. They build relationships, increase ecumenical literacy and, with their rich range of resources, action, partnerships and focus, they serve the Church's ever greater unity. With a perspective from outside the governance of the churches to which their members belong, and often from a point of direct engagement with the changing conditions and needs of wider society, their insight also offers a refreshing addition to the churches' united working, creating new space for the Church's voice to be heard in the public sphere.

They are active in many of the same fields as CTE and CTBI. With members and projects across the country, they can work with County and local Churches Together too:

- ✦ Church Life, Mission and Christian Apologetics
  - ✦ Public Affairs
  - ✦ Justice and Peace
- ✦ Environment and Sustainable Development
  - ✦ Children and Schools
  - ✦ Students and Young People
- ✦ Christian Discipleship and Formation
  - ✦ Health, Social and Pastoral Care
    - ✦ Community Building
    - ✦ Prayer and Spirituality
  - ✦ Dialogue and Ecumenical Learning
- ✦ International Concerns and Development

Action by Christians Against Torture

ACAT-UK works for the abolition of torture worldwide, by increasing awareness of the Christian obligation to work towards ending it. ACAT depends largely on local church-based groups. Formed in 1984, ACAT produces a bi-monthly newsletter with topical case studies, model appeal letters and prayers.

Antioch Community

Antioch is an ecumenical, charismatic, covenant, Christian community based in West London, but with links around the country, including similar communities in Glasgow, Belfast and across the world. Catholic, Orthodox, Anglican and Protestant Christians, we belong to The Sword of the Spirit, an international "community of communities", including the Servants of the Word, a brotherhood of men living single under Christ; Koinonia, our outreach to students; and Kairos, a Europe-wide youth organisation. Our common way of life is to be distinct from the world, characterised by holiness, promoting Christian unity, and spreading the Gospel by building communities as a bulwark against the sin, division, and strife in the world.

Association of Inter-Church Families

AIF offers a support network, nationally and locally, for families in which one partner is usually Roman Catholic and the other a Christian of another Communion. It gives a voice for such couples and families, as they seek to make their pastoral needs known within the churches, as well as making a vital contribution to the growing together of the churches.

Bible Society

In England and Wales, Bible Society works for a better engagement for all walks of life with the Bible, building bridges between people in the worlds of arts & performance, education, media, politics, sport, business and social concerns and the Christian faith’s bearing on everyday life. Hundreds of resources in a rich variety of formats and languages, and 200 Action Groups around the country, help churches and their members to overcome society’s “Bible Poverty”. The Christian Resources Exhibitions and Directory are also part of our work.

CCADD - Council on Christian Approaches to Defence and Disarmament

CCADD, recognising that Christians have long held widely differing views on the use of military force, does not prescribe a single approach, but provides a forum where scholars, officials, military personnel, clergy (including chaplains to the forces), peace-movement activists, and interested members of other faiths or none, can enter into dialogue with each other. Christian pacifists and defenders of “just war” are agreed on the need to search for the means to reduce international tension, and CCADD offers channels for disseminating ideas and knowledge, as well as the chance to talk to well-informed people on many key areas of conflict and their resolution.

CHASTE

Churches Alert to Sex Trafficking in Europe highlights a modern underworld of slavery that warrants a Christian response. Working with governments, other agencies and NGOs, CHASTE wants to change the debate in this country about prostitution, grooming and trafficking for sexual exploitation, and all forms of sexual abuse. We urge all churches to be engaged, in prayer, discussion and practical action. This needs to involve all denominations working together and sharing their resources in a united vision for justice.

Christian Council on Ageing provides Christian voice and action on issues that matter to older people in church and society. Our membership of all ages is drawn from across the wide range of Christian traditions. It includes retired people, Christians working in the caring professions, relatives and carers of older people, including those with age-related conditions like Alzheimer's and dementia, and anyone seeking guidance and a better understanding on issues that affect older people – including the under-utilisation of their faith, talent and experience as some of the Church's greatest resources.

Church Action on Poverty is a national ecumenical Christian social justice charity, committed to tackling poverty in the UK. It is a national campaigning body, but also runs grassroots projects in local communities. It works in partnership with churches and with people in poverty themselves to find solutions to poverty, locally, nationally and globally. It suggests that Churches Together groups can have a role in holding their MPs accountable for what they do in Parliament.

Churches Community Work Alliance

We initiate and support community development work in the life of the churches. We help the churches to reflect theologically on their response to social and economic change. We promote good community development work practice. We provide help and guidance for community development work projects and we support practitioners. In our local groups, the engagement of individuals, and in the projects we are involved in, we stand for the process of community development work, as the most empowering and enabling way for the church to express its beliefs in action, in ministry and in mission.

Community of Aidan and Hilda

Our Community is a dispersed, ecumenical body, drawing inspiration from the lives of the Celtic saints. Our vision is to cradle a holistic Christian spirituality for today; to raise up a renewed people who journey with God; to resource the emerging and existing church; and to heal fragmented people and communities. The Open Gate on Lindisfarne is our main house and offers accommodation for members and visitors. We provide a programme of retreats and events on Holy Island, around the UK through our regional groups, and internationally.

Corrymeela began when one man, Ray Davey, a prisoner in World War II who witnessed the Allied bombing of Dresden, felt that his faith compelled him to action, and that action meant helping to heal divisions, beginning in Northern Ireland. The Corrymeela Community, on Ireland's northern coast, remains a place where people from opposing backgrounds meet, learn about one another and share common ground.

Corrymeela is people of all ages and Christian traditions, who individually and together are committed to peace-building and the healing of social, religious and political divisions that exist not only in Northern Ireland but throughout the world.

The Ecumenical Society of the Blessed Virgin Mary exists to advance the study at various levels of the place of the Blessed Virgin Mary in the Church, under Christ, and the related theological questions; and in the light of such study to promote ecumenical devotion. Through national events and groups, its aim is to show that, in the Blessed Virgin Mary, Christians of many traditions may find a focus in their search for unity.

Feed the Minds believes that education saves lives, reduces poverty and builds community.

Working in partnership worldwide, Feed the Minds funds a wide variety of innovative, indigenous educational projects. By improving access to knowledge and learning, the charity helps give people the opportunity to experience life in all its fullness. Feed the Minds supports projects that aim to transform lives in marginalised communities through education, communication and the provision of information to under-resourced people. "Lunches for Life" is a way for local church people to raise awareness of poor literacy and access to education.

Fellowship of Reconciliation began in 1914, on the brink of war, and has been involved in campaigning, peace and reconciliation in conflicts around the world ever since. We encourage members and the public at large to challenge the structures, policies and attitudes that lie at the root of violence, whether through campaigns, or peace-building activity. Focusing on the current generation of students and young adults, we pass on the skills, attitudes and friendships to make them a force for peace. This sits alongside our work with the media, our promotion of conflict resolution, and the resources to deepen a spirituality of non-violence in the Church's many Peace Fellowships and Justice and Peace groups.

Fellowship of St Alban and St Sergius was founded in 1928 by members of the Eastern Orthodox and Western Christian Churches, to pray and work for Christian unity. It provides opportunities for Orthodox Christians and Christians of Western traditions to meet one another, and so to deepen their understanding of each other's spirituality, theology and worship. We maintain an information service for those seeking to know about the Orthodox Church both in Great Britain and throughout the world. In Britain there are national events and activities by our local groups, as well as opportunities for international exchange and visits.

Friends of the Bossey Ecumenical Institute

The Ecumenical Institute at Bossey, near Geneva, is the international centre for encounter, dialogue and formation of the World Council of Churches. It brings together people from diverse churches, cultures and backgrounds for ecumenical learning, academic study and personal exchange. The Friends of Bossey link supporters and alumni in the UK, to support the work of the Institute at its base in Switzerland and further its objectives in this country.

Industrial Mission Association

IMA supports a network of industrial chaplains, ordained and lay, that establishes and sustains an engagement between the church and the world of employment. The chaplaincy work takes place across city centres, in the retail industry, as well as in the manufacturing industries and the public sector. Chaplains form relationships with local employers and visit workplaces on a regular basis. Their purpose is not to try to convert employees, but to establish a dialogue between employers, employees and the church and provide an engagement between faith and the workplace, religion and society.

International Ecumenical Fellowship

IEF is a grass-roots, international community of Christians from countries across Europe, bringing together Christians from all traditions to worship, pray, study and enjoy fellowship. There are regional groups in Belgium, the Czech Republic, France, Germany, Great Britain, Hungary, Poland, Romania, Slovak Republic, Spain, and individual members in a number of other countries. IEF seeks to encourage and strengthen the ecumenical commitment of its members in the local communities. It holds an annual international conference and smaller, regional meetings. It practices and encourages Eucharistic Hospitality as far as church discipline and personal conscience permit it.

www.ief-oecumenica.org

Iona Community is a dispersed Christian ecumenical community working for peace and social justice, rebuilding of community and the renewal of worship. It has centres on Iona and Mull, and members throughout the UK and beyond. We share a common Rule that includes daily prayer, Bible reading, mutual accountability for our time and money, and action for justice, peace, the integrity of creation, and the deepening of ecumenical dialogue and communion.

L'Arche is an ecumenical Christian community open to all who share its values and mission. Those values are rooted in our identity: we are people with and without learning disabilities sharing lives together. Mutual relationships and trust in God lie at the heart of our journey together. In celebrating the unique value of each person, we recognise our need of each other – and of relationships with local churches with which we welcome dialogue. We have ten communities in the UK.

Magnet began in 1987 as the magazine of the Women's Network of the Methodist Church, with the aim of enabling and equipping women to take their full place in the life of the church. It set out on its own way in 2007, in order to encourage a wider audience of women and men from all denominations in their journey of Christian faith. With a circulation of 11,000, it inspires individuals and groups to bring their faith to bear on issues of social concern. Since August 2012, it has joined forces with the Hymns Ancient & Modern publishing charity.

Micah Challenge is a global movement, encouraging Christians to be committed to the poor and hold governments accountable for their pledge within the Millennium Development Goals. As a global voice on poverty for Christians, we encourage people in the Church to be informed, to engage and to speak out for justice. We ask world leaders to take responsibility for their commitment in the Millennium Development Goals to halve extreme poverty by 2015. With our course The Jesus Agenda and such projects as "Woman to Woman" and "Use by 2015", we educate, train and resource Christians to become involved in this advocacy.

Oikocredit is one of the world's largest sources of private funding to the micro-finance sector. We also provide credit to trade cooperatives, fair trade organisations and small-to-medium enterprises in the developing world, for life-changing loans to the poor and disadvantaged, with a special emphasis on rural areas and women. In addition to earning modest financial returns to investors, we give them the assurance that their money is being used to fight poverty, promote fair trade and respect our planet's natural resources. We began in 1975 as a World Council of Churches initiative to

 Operation Noah works for the complete de-carbonisation of the British economy by 2030. It is a Christian organisation that provides leadership, focus and inspiration, in response to the growing threat of catastrophic climate change endangering God's creation. Informed by the science of climate change, we are motivated to care for creation by our faith and hope in God, and driven to transform and enrich our society through radical change in lifestyles and patterns of consumption.

Prison Fellowship - England & Wales

Through our 1,600 volunteers from churches throughout England and Wales, we work for the restoration of the lives of prisoners and victims, and their families. Our support comes in both practical action and through prayer for all of these groups. We run "Sycamore Tree" restorative justice courses, we offer "Angel Tree" (which helps children of prisoners), we write letters to prisoners and support, and we assist the Prison Chaplaincies. We are also affiliated with Prison Fellowships in Scotland and Northern Ireland.

Retreat Association is a national Christian organisation set up to help people explore and deepen their journey with God through spirituality and prayer. We represent five denominational groups that together support people both inside and outside the Church to find a retreat in one of the 230 retreat houses and their programmes in our networks; find a spiritual director or companion; and discover the resources that can deepen their prayer life. We host national and regional events with a focus on spirituality, and we offer training in spiritual direction, leading retreats and quiet days.

Society for Ecumenical Studies

We focus on the nature and purpose of the Body of Christ, its faith and order, to foster ecumenical learning between the Church's different traditions, to bring together practical and theological experience in different religious, cultural, social and international fields, and to extend the mutual knowledge that advances the unity of the Church and strengthens its mission. Public events and our networks for sharing studies on aspects of Church unity enable encounter between scholars, church leaders, clergy and lay people, other organisations and groups of churches at local, national and international levels.

William Temple Foundation is an independent faith-based research institution. We continue the vision of Archbishop William Temple for a just and inclusive society. We promote the economic, social and political wellbeing of society, through analysing the contribution made by Christian thought, as well as by other religious and secular traditions. We seek to develop the churches' theology, skills and good practice in their engagement with economics, working life and urban communities. Within local, regional and national networks, we seek the solidarity of churches, other faith communities and wider society with those disadvantaged by economic and public policy, and social trends.

More than Gold

Like scaffolding, we exist on a temporary basis so something permanent is built to last. Our dream is the legacy we want to see left behind from the London 2012 Olympic Games – a growing and more relevant Church that continues to engage with its community through sports and service. With a network of people, churches and organisations, we have been a catalyst for activity; casting the vision for the special opportunities 2012 offers; connecting Christians and churches across the country and globe – generating strength through unity and partnership - that the good news about Jesus will be expressed in both word and action – not just through sport but also lives of faith, prayer and social justice.
